

AN IMMENSE INCREASE IN INDUSTRIES

Guthrie Now Leads in Manufacturing Plants.

OKLAHOMA CITY NEXT

In Three Years the Gains Have Been 76 Per Cent.

Guthrie, O. T., Dec. 11.—In three years the manufacturing industries of Oklahoma have increased by 76 per cent, or three-fifths. This is the result of the industrial development of the territory.

In Governor Barlow's report for 1932, he reported to the legislature that there were 1,200 manufacturing establishments in the territory, employing 120,000 people. In 1929, there were 675 establishments, employing 67,500 people. This number of establishments is an increase of 76 per cent, and the number of people employed is an increase of 76 per cent.

The above figures include simply the manufacturing industries. They do not include the service industries, such as hotels, restaurants, and other service industries. These industries have also increased in number and in the number of people employed.

In 1929, Oklahoma City had 1,200 manufacturing establishments, employing 120,000 people. In 1932, Oklahoma City had 1,200 manufacturing establishments, employing 120,000 people. This is an increase of 76 per cent.

The three new towns have added very materially to the industries of Oklahoma. Muskogee is reported to have 1,200 manufacturing establishments, employing 120,000 people. Tulsa is reported to have 1,200 manufacturing establishments, employing 120,000 people. Bartlesville is reported to have 1,200 manufacturing establishments, employing 120,000 people.

No statistics on these two subjects will be found in any of the newspapers prior to this. The subject of manufacturing is a new one. The explanation that Oklahoma was too young for such industries.

These remarkable gains then this "land of the future" has produced. The following table shows the gains in the number of manufacturing establishments and the number of people employed in the territory.

RED BROTHER WON THE DAY IN COUNTY

Governor Ferguson Tells of Early Politics.

TRICKED THE DEMOCRATS

Republicans Carried County by a Small Margin.

Guthrie, O. T., Dec. 11.—The Indian is a stubborn fellow and having always a suspicion of whatever the white man is doing, it is hard for the latter to handle him. However, there is one epoch in the history of Indian country, Oklahoma, in which the red man was handled by the white man to good advantage.

Governor T. B. Ferguson tells of that time the first time the Indian was voted. The governor says: "It was in '72. In the Cheyenne and Arapaho country at that time, a settler was not allowed to vote until he had held land for six months. There was no law that we knew of for this, but everyone observed the ruling."

"That year, we Republicans, (Chas. Davis was the chairman of the county central committee) carried the county C. over Indian country, and found that with a few doubtful members we lacked enough to win the county ticket. So just then, necessity forced us to find a way out of our trouble."

"The Arapaho and Cheyenne tribes were camped about eighteen miles west of Watonga. The two tribes had been fighting between themselves. The Cheyennes were very hostile toward the white people and at one time threatened to turn all the whites out of the country. The Arapahos therefore thought by taking sides with the whites, they would be doing injury to the Cheyennes. This fact may have had its weight in our success with the Arapahos."

"We boys went out to the camp and had a conference with the chiefs. We wanted them to put one of their own tribe in the campaign for we thought that we could get them to vote by doing this. We explained to the old chiefs that there were certain conclusions according from the office of register of deeds and that this money would come to them if they voted."

"We stayed with them nearly all night then and smoked the pipe in the tent while the old chiefs counseled with one another about the white man's proposition. The Democrats accused us of paying in a dog's head. What the red did, I don't know, but I know that I didn't get any dog."

"Finally the old chiefs decided to vote with the white man and we went back home about daylight. They put in an educated Indian youth by the name of John Williams."

"These Indians cast twenty-four votes and saved the day for the Republicans. The county clerk won by just five majority, the treasurer by nine and so on. It was pretty close and shows how closely we feared that poll of the county."

"One of the boys of the county, the thing was the way the Democrats were duped when they tried the same game two years later."

"The night before election, the Indians at the solicitation of the Democrats came after dark, slipped around and told the different Indians that if they voted that day they would have to pay taxes and give up their ponies. The Indian had found all the Indians on the election morning and the Democrats got some of them back, but after all did not vote."

"We had our men stationed at the polls and when a Democrat went to vote an Indian, the Republican would open up the book to the Oklahoma statute, showing the law that if a Democrat voted, the Democrats not knowing of the law, would declare that as that was the law, he would violate it by voting the Indian."

"Finally, one of the Democrats cracked, the Republican with the statute very clearly and said: 'How did you fellows vote the Indians two years ago?'"

"Now," replied the Republican without a blush, "this law has been made since that time."

MAXWELL FOR SPEAKER. Yukon Man May Be a Factor in Race at Guthrie. El Bon, O. T., Dec. 11.—Hon. Bart Maxwell, of Yukon, will probably be a candidate for speaker of the lower house, but he has no notion of running for the position, but his friends on the west side have written him a number of letters asking him to run. If elected, he will control the lower house, and he will have a lot of influence in the state.

he took her on his lap and was talking to her, and when she started to leave him, tried to detain her for a moment. The child insists that the man attempted to hold her by the arm, and when she cried out, put his hand over her mouth. He was in this position when several men, passing from the above, saw him and took the child away, leaving Moler badly before Policemen John Linn could interfere and arrest the man. The child says Moler made no attempt to rape her, though she does not understand what such an action means clearly, and the man is so frightened that he can give no clear explanation of his action on every signature.

TO CURE A COLD IN ONE DAY. Take Laxative Bromo-Quinine Tablets. Half a Block of Business Houses Destroyed. Guthrie, O. T., Dec. 11.—A telephone message was received at 8 o'clock last evening stating that a big fire was in progress which threatened the entire city of Geary. Later reports indicate that about half a block of the business section was destroyed.

The fire is reported to have originated in a hotel. The portion of the block consumed the opposite the Geary hotel, and was burned from the alley to the corner building, which remained intact. The following is a list of the business houses destroyed: A. N. Trow, second-hand store, loss $100; H. A. Owens & Son, confectionery, $500; J. W. Cunningham, second-hand store, $200; C. S. Johnson, hotel, $1,000; Chas. Marchant, restaurant, $300; John D. Bender, saloon, $500; H. W. Bole, confectionery, $100.

J. H. Geary's stock of groceries was badly damaged. His building was in the line of the fire and it seemed for a time that it was sure to burn. The stock was carried into the street, but fortunately the building was not destroyed. Several others were damaged considerably and it is hard to estimate the true amount of damage at this time. The origin of the fire is not known, but it is known that it has been caused by one of the owners at the Central hotel accidentally setting fire to his bed clothes. About one-half the loss was covered by insurance.

BLUE-EYED MAIDEN CAUSES TROUBLE IN WICHITA HOME. Wife Seeking Information of a Recluse Husband. Guthrie, O. T., Dec. 11.—The Lawton News gives the following account of a troublemaker in a Wichita home. Yesterday Chief of Police Thomas received a letter from Wichita, Kansas, signed Mrs. Myers, which tells a story. The lady has lost her husband and wants to find him at once.

An officer was detailed on the case, but was unable to locate the missing man. He is known here to several but no one has heard from him for some time. The letter in part, says: "I am left with a broken heart, and I can only write to you to see if I can get any information. My husband left on the 10th of this month. He ran off with my kind girl, and I thought that he might be in your town because he has a sister that has a claim."

My husband's weight is 230, smooth face, a near on one cheek, the necktie in front are bridge work of gold. The girl ran off with a blue-eyed, good looking man. His right name is Nellie."

Omega Oil

FOR Sore Throat

Every good mother loves her children with a devotion that brings out all the beautiful traits of human character. She watches over them with a tenderness and solicitude that no man can fully appreciate. She tries to keep them well, and when the common ailment of Sore Throat attacks them, she resorts to the very safest and very surest remedy she knows anything about.

Those good mothers who have used Omega Oil upon the throats of their little ones will use nothing else. Those other good mothers who have never used this Oil ought to use it. It combines safety with certainty. Omega Oil does not blister or burn or redden the tender skin of children. There is not a particle of danger in using it. It is to be rubbed on the throat, and then a piece of flannel saturated with the Oil is to be fastened around the throat until the disease disappears.

It is truthful to say that Omega Oil has saved children's lives, and it is just as truthful to say that lives have been lost that might have been saved by Omega Oil.

This Oil is for grown folks as well as children. It is for any and all diseases of the breathing organs that call for external treatment. Omega Oil is good for everything a liniment ought to be good for.

Our baby had throat trouble so bad he nearly choked. We rubbed his throat with Omega Oil and it gave immediate relief. My uncle John, finds it the only thing that relieves his difficult breathing. For sore throat, with which our family is afflicted in winter, nothing equal to Omega Oil can be found. CHAS. V. DWYER, 709 Jackson Ave., New York City.
